King and Janín previously collaborated on the critically acclaimed Batman and Robin series, which ran from 2016 to 2018. The series was praised for its character development and exploration of the father-son relationship between Batman and Robin. King left the series in 2018 to write the Eisner Award-winning Mister Miracle series, but he has since returned to DC Comics with the upcoming Grayson 2024 series.

Grayson 2024 will pick up after the events of the current Nightwing series, which is also written by King. In the new series, Dick Grayson will step down as Nightwing and take on a new role as the protector of Gotham City. King has said that the new series will be a "return to the roots" of the Grayson character, and that he will be exploring the character's relationship with Batman and the rest of the Bat-Family.

Janín has said that the art for Grayson 2024 will be "more stylized" than his work on Batman and Robin. He has also said that the series will have a "noir" feel to it, which is a genre that King is known for. King has said that he is excited to be working with Janín again, and that the artist is "the perfect person to bring Grayson 2024 to life."

Grayson 2024 is scheduled to debut in January 2024. The series will be published by DC Comics and will be available in both print and digital formats.

What to Expect from Grayson 2024
