

Poems from Guantanamo: The Detainees Speak

Poems from Guantanamo: The Detainees Speak is a powerful and moving collection of poetry written by detainees held at the Guantanamo Bay detention camp. The poems offer a rare glimpse into the lives of these men, who have been imprisoned for years without trial or charge. The poems are full of longing, despair, and hope, and they provide a powerful indictment of the U.S. government's treatment of detainees.

The poems in this collection were written by detainees from a variety of backgrounds. Some are from Afghanistan, others from Pakistan, and still others from Yemen. They are all men who have been accused of being terrorists, but none have been convicted of any crime. They have been held at Guantanamo Bay for years, without any hope of release.

The poems in this collection are a testament to the resilience of the human spirit. Despite the horrors they have endured, the detainees have not given up hope. They continue to write poetry, to express their thoughts and feelings, and to dream of a better future.

The poems in this collection are a powerful reminder of the importance of human rights. The detainees at Guantanamo Bay are not terrorists. They are human beings who deserve to be treated with dignity and respect. We must never forget them, and we must continue to fight for their release.
